Reaching out and connecting with other women who are experiencing or have experienced breast cancer may help you realize that survival and healing are possible. Joining this support group will not only provide valuable information to you by way of speakers, but will also provide a comfortable and non-threatening environment for you to share your experiences and/or listen to others. The first Wednesday of each month will be focused on a specific topic, with discussion time to follow, and the third Wednesday of each month will be an informal meeting.
